DEMONSTRATES CHANNEL WING PLANE . . . W. R. Custer, president of Custer Channel Wing Corp., Hagerstown, Md., stands beside his invention, a channel wing plane which was demonstrated in Pittsburgh. Custer says his plane can take off in a few feet, rise vertically, hover in the air, land vertically and attain speed of conventional aircraft. He claims that jet planes with the wing will be able to take off from a battleship.

highlight of our trip to see and hear him.

Shephen Collins Foster was born about the time Thomas Jefferson died. Foster died January 15, 1864, in Bellevue Hospital, New York. Upon death his pocket contained 38 cents—and a scrap of papar upon which was written: "Dear friends and gentle hearts." It was believed this was to have been another song. His life was filled with tragedy; yet today not only in America, but all over the world Foster's songs are favorites. He wrote his first song when he was 14. He was 18 when his first published song appeared: Open Thy Lattice Love. He spent some years in Pittsburgh. The pioneer westward movement was under way in 1847 when he wrote Oh! Susanna. It became the theme song of the California Gold Rush. Gay years followed and he wrote the tuneful Camptown Races. But nostalgia was an integral part of Foster's music. In 1851 he wrote of his love of home and family in the immortal Old Folks At Home, which is known and loved by more people in more countries than perhaps any other song. It is generally known as Way Down Upon the Swanee River. we saw the original manuscript. In the first stanza, the line read: Way Down Upon De Pedoe River. Apparantly Foster was not satisfied with the name Pedoe, for in the second stanza he crossed out Pedoe and wrote Swanee! (The river actually is spelled Suwanee, and Foster never saw it.) In 1863 he wrote My Old Kentucky Home and Old Day Tray. In 1854 he wrote the tender love song, Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair. In 1860 he kept a promise of earlier years and wrote a song of an old servant, Old Black Joe.

Today there are Foster Memorials at Foster Hall, University of Pittsburgh; Lilly Hall, Indianapolis; Ford Village, Dearborn; Bardstown, Kentucky, and on the Suwanee River at White Springs, Florida. But the real Foster memorial is in the soul of humanity, all over the world.
